Bay High wins AA, one of 30 in state

Bay Senior High School was notified this week that it had been classified AA by the State Department of Education.

Heretofore, it had been classed A. The new rating puts it one of 30 out of 562 Mississippi high schools.

To obtain this rating, the school must qualify in many designated fields. These range from the standard that its principal must hold a Class AA supervisor's certificate to the requirement that the school's library must have appropriated for its use each year a minimum amount of new books.

Noting several years of effort by the school board, faculty and administration to attain this select classification, Superintendent J.D. McCullough said, "We are proud of this continuing evidence of the improvement of both the facilities and instruction in the Bay St. Louis public schools."

Prior to this year, all city schools were rated either Class A or accredited. To receive AA rating, 75 per cent of all teachers must hold a Class A or AA secondary certificate. Twenty-five per cent or more of all secondary teachers must have at least 18 quarter hours of graduate credit or a master's degree. Each secondary school teacher must have an unassigned daily period.

The high school building facilities must be adequate and have ample building space so arranged that the curriculum can offer the required number of high school credits in English, mathematics, science, social studies, etc. The high school must also offer home

Baker, Lee lead HNC graduates

Lanny Baker has been named valedictorian and Alana Gall Lee, salutatorian of the 1967 graduating class at Hancock North Central High School.

Jerry W. Rodriguez, principal, has announced. Commencement will be at 8 p.m. Monday on the athletic field.

Baker has a four-year scholastic average of 97.60. Miss Lee's is 94.25.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. David Baker, Lanny has been president of both his freshman and senior classes, and was chosen the most likely to succeed by his senior classmates. He was junior class reporter, vice president of the Beta Club, active in Future Farmers of America and received the science medal in 1965 and 1966.

He plans to attend Pearl River Junior College to begin pre-engineering studies. Lanny is assistant song director at Lee's Chapel Baptist Church at Leetown and his hobbies are mechanics, swimming and hunting.

Alana Gall is co-editor of the '67 yearbook, The Hawk, and has served two years as recording secretary of the Beta Club. Fellow seniors chose her the girl most likely to succeed. She was junior class vice president and has been active in Future Homemakers of America and the school chorus.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady W. Lee of Leetown, she expects to study secretarial science at Pearl River Junior College this fall. She is a member of Lee's Chapel Baptist Church and her hobbies are bowling, reading and cooking.

Rev. Robert Sams, Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

Unraveling the status of Hancock County's supervisory districts took on the complexion of the Minotaur trying to find his way out of the labyrinth as the board of supervisors sought Tuesday to reverse the three-judge federal court's redistricting order.

The new twist came after the U.S. Supreme Court on Monday declined to rule on the applicability of the one man, one vote doctrine at the local level.

The board promptly filed a petition seeking a review of the district court's decision Friday. It asked the court for a delay and rehearing of the order issued by U.S. District Judge Harold Cox, speaking for the three-judge panel, that the county be reapportioned on the one man, one vote basis. The alternative would be running at large.

Walter J. Phillips and George Morse, attorneys for the supervisors in the redistricting litigation, are asking that the case be transferred from the three-judge tribunal to the jurisdiction of a district judge in view of the Supreme Court ruling.

Upton Sison, plaintiff's counsel in the case, also is filing a motion to transfer the jurisdiction because two of the four cases on which the Supreme Court ruled were on this procedural question.

Last Friday's order by Judge Cox was concurred in by U.S. Fifth Circuit Judge J.P. Coleman and District Judge Claude Clayton. It calls for the county to adopt the one man, one vote plan the supervisors submitted last October in compliance with a court order of last July.

Supervisors had preferred a plan which made only minor modifications in beat lines and left them running at large from their respective beats, notwithstanding the fact that the bulk of the population resided in Beat 5.

See maps Pages 4 and 5-B

In April supervisors had put on their minutes a plan with the same modifications in beat lines whereby they ran from beats. It was this change that prompted the plaintiffs and the court itself to ask the hearing that was held last Friday.

Because of the deletion and subsequent protest from plaintiffs in the suit, Judge Cox called the supervisors before him last Friday and tartly told them to comply with the one man, one vote philosophy.

"It seems foolish to let a man run under the present district lines because it would be this court's duty to set aside any election not conforming to the rule," he declared.

The judge said he was convinced the Supreme Court would extend one man, one vote to local bodies.

The plan ordered creates five districts varying less than 10 per cent from the population norm for each beat.

Present Beat 1 is extended east to Farrar Lane, Waveland and has 3,630 people according to the special redistricting census made last summer. The other four beats fan out from the coast.

Beat 2 runs from Farrar to Booker Street, Bay St. Louis; and has 3,636 people. Beat 3 is from Booker to Main Street with 3,453; 4 is from Main to U.S. 90 with 3,462 persons and 5 covers Cedar Point north to the Pearl River County line with 3,324.

Under the old system, Beat 5 had 8,852 people compared to 869 in Beat 2, Beat 1 has 1,333, while 3 has 1,141 and 4 has 1,838.

After ruling on the Hancock case, Judge Cox and District Judge Dan M. Russell ordered Harrison, Jackson and Stone Counties to appear this coming Friday to show cause why they should not be ordered to run at large unless an acceptable plan is submitted. None of those counties are known to have any plan devised.

The Supreme Court Monday, in four unanimous decisions written by Justice William C. Wiles, affirmed judgments in four insurance cases handled by the state Supreme Court in favor of property owners in Hancock County.

L&N offer on signals is mulled

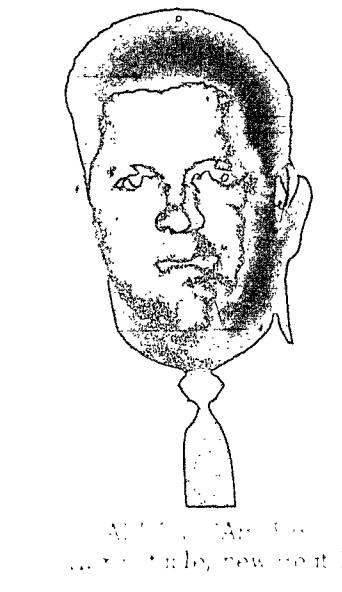

There were no spontaneous takers from Bay St. Louis and Waveland to Louisville & Nashville Railroad's offer to pay 10 per cent of the installation cost and all of the maintenance cost, for additional automatic traffic control systems at grade crossings in the two municipalities. The proposal was presented by J.B. Clarke, chief engineer of the railway, at a meeting last Thursday of the spokesmen and the municipal representatives.

The average installation cost for these signals per crossing was estimated at $10,000, with the maintenance cost at $800 per year. In speaking to the municipalities' representatives, Clarke pointed out that under this formula the railroad actually agreed to bear more than one-half of the expense, since considering the investments to return 5 per cent per year, providing maintenance costs of $800 per year amounted to an investment of $16,000 per crossing. Also, the railroad spokesman pointed out that this is the formula generally followed where federal highway representatives.

In presenting the proposals Clarke repeatedly mentioned that the question of who should pay for the safety measures involved determining a fair method of apportioning these costs between the public and the railroad. "The cost of signals to prevent accidents at grade crossings should be divided between the public and the railroad in the same proportion as the benefit each derives from the signals," he said.

Besides Clarke, L&N was in presenting the proposals Clarke repeatedly mentioned that the question of who should pay for the safety measures involved determining a fair method of apportioning these costs between the public and the railroad. "The cost of signals to prevent accidents at grade crossings should be divided between the public and the railroad in the same proportion as the benefit each derives from the signals," he said.

Hubbard will run, more (ILLUSTRATION)

Six candidates, including R. G. Hubbard, Jr., incumbent Beat 5 supervisor, announced this week they'll run in the Aug. 8 Democratic primary.

Activity picked up over the weekend as word spread of the three-judge federal court's order Friday redistricting the county on the one man, one vote lines.

Hubbard had said last week he wouldn't seek re-election to a fifth term but was persuaded to run in the newly created Beat 2 on the basis the load would not be as heavy.

Two more aspirants entered the race for the Beat 1 seat

Under the old system, Beat 5 had 8,852 people compared to 869 in Beat 2, Beat 1 has 1,333, while 3 has 1,141 and 4 has 1,838.

Insurance firms are behind 3 to 1 in Betsy loss suits

The score was 3-1 against insurance companies in hurricane Betsy damage suits when a jury awarded $8,435 damages to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Haas Friday. Defendant in the two-day trial was Hanover Insurance Co., and it was the third verdict in favor of property owners in Hancock County Circuit Court since the hurricane, one being for an insurance company.

Numerous cases remain on the docket, the issue in all being whether damage was caused by water or wind.

In the Haas suit, Judge Leo McLean Wednesday sustained a defense motion for a new trial "unless plaintiff will remit $2,000 within 30 days, failing in which a new trial to be granted on question of damage suit". Interpretation of the motion is that Haas is willing to accept $6,435 damages, defendant will not ask for a new trial.

Judge McLean Wednesday suspended

tained a motion by the defendant for a new trial in the case of P.J. Carona vs. The Monarch Insurance Co. of Columbus, Ohio, on grounds the verdict was against the overwhelming weight of the evidence. He set the second trial for Sept. 14. Last week a jury found for Carona in the amount of $8,450.

Only two criminal cases were heard in the seven-day period prior to Wednesday afternoon. Larry Bourgeois, charged with fondling, changed his plea to guilty and drew a 10-year sentence in the state penitentiary, suspended for five years. Walter John Cuevas, charged with child neglect, got a one-year-term, suspended for five years.

Several other criminal cases were on the docket for Thursday and Friday.

In one of the busiest terms in recent years, Judge McLean Wednesday was hearing a State County vacation case, Otto E. Breazeale vs. Pat Harrison Waterway District, an eminent domain suit.

Other civil cases handled were Republic Finance Corp.

Shulte case affirmed

The state Supreme Court Monday affirmed a Hancock County jury's verdict for the plaintiff in the county's first hurricane Betsy suit, Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Shulte vs. Firemen's Insurance Co. of Newark, N.J.

The jury awarded Mr. and Mrs. Shulte damages of $7,800, the amount sued for, last June and the Supreme Court's ruling will in all likelihood affect the outcome of many other cases filed in Circuit Court although a jury returned a verdict for the insurance company in the second Betsy case, Mr. Joseph Choate

STATE CHAMP — Charlotte Piazza, recent winner of state Bantam League Bowling championship, is presented another trophy by Andre Arceneaux at American Junior Bowling Congress Banquet at Harvey's Monday night. Pilkey cited for 20 years with GE

Orrin H. Pilkey, manager-test support section for General Electric Co.'s Mississippi Test Support Department, was recently presented a service award honoring his 20 years service with General Electric. The award was presented by William R. Eaton, Department General Manager, at a special ceremony in his office at MTF.

Prior to his present assignment, Pilkey was manager-design engineering section for GE's Hanford atomic products operation. He directed the design and project management of reactors, chemical processing plants and equipment, laboratories and various other facilities. His career includes other noteworthy accomplishments including design of the Grand Island Bridge over Niagara River, which won the AISC Prize for the most beautiful bridge in its class in 1933, and a paper which he co-authored at the 1958 Geneva International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy.

Pilkey holds a B.S. degree in civil engineering from Texas A & M, an M.S. degree in structural engineering from the University of Illinois and has done post-graduate work in chemical and nuclear engiering. He belongs to several honorary and professional societies, including Tau Beta Pi; American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics; American Society of Civil Engineers; and the American Society for Engineering Education.

Pilkey and his wife, Elizabeth, are active in community, hospital and library work. They live at 415 Piney Ridge Road, Waveland.

HE LIKED SERVICE — Frank Drury prepares to return to his Ponchatoula, La., home in car he has just purchased from John Gallagher.

I have been looking for a good used car for my wife and son — I have been shopping around and I was impressed with the way Perry Lane services his used cars for sale. The 62 Chevy that I bought had been sold and serviced by this place of business, and I felt more secure of my choice of this used car. I also liked the way they handled the paper work as I live in Louisiana and had to have papers necessary to register my car.

State policy toldSeptic tanks out for sub-divisions

The state board of health has advised Wayne Allman, county sanitarian, that because of evidence against waste and disposal fields are not satisfactory, it has been the same policy since Jan. 1, 1968, to prohibit them in all new or redeveloped subdivisions.

Allman informed the board of supervisors of this at the hearing on revising the county's recently adopted sub-division ordinance continued Monday. A number of real estate men and developers have protested the sewage disposal systems are too costly in rural areas.

C. X. Capelton, advisory committee member, urged Allman that water also must be furnished from a municipal supply or approved community supply. Plans for the two systems must be prepared by a registered engineer and approved by the state board.

Allman observed that it may be cheaper in the long run for the developer to furnish water and sewage and add about $400 to the price of the lot than for an individual to put in a well and septic tank for $700 or $800 and find it won't work in a few months.

Louis Biscoe of Planning Services, Inc., New Orleans consultants who drew the proposed ordinance several years ago, was on hand for the 10 a.m. session but the supervisors didn't convene until 11:30 and he left. No one was set for another meeting to occur his advice and the board adjourned for the month.

In another jurisdiction matter, Allman reported an engineer from the state health office has checked the sites for construction of a sanitary landfill and was most impressed with Jackson Ridge. He felt it could be turned into one of the most beautiful pieces of property in the county, Allman reported.

The sanitarian called to have one supervisor handle any land acquisition, dispensing equipment to start the clearing, etc., and the board designated H.G. Dean of Bear 1 to the job as it appears his new district will take in Jackson Ridge.

At a recent meeting last Thursday, the board directed advertising for bids for a trustee to service the sanitary fill.

The board on Tuesday authorized $1,000 worth of Mark O. Douglas, received for another time the question of whether municipal or county agencies fall under the jurisdiction applied in Raynolds v. Sims. That was the 1964 case in which the federal court held that both houses of state legislature must be apportioned on a population basis.

Juris Doctor Douglas wrote that the court focused for the sake of argument and prior to any definitive ruling that the Raynolds-Sims decision does apply to local government agencies. The cases were the board of review and control of Hancock County, Ala.; the board of supervisors of Suffolk County, N.Y., the school board of Kent County, Mich., and the city council of Virginia Beach, Va. The U.S. Department of Justice had filed a brief in the cases supporting the extension of the Raynolds-Sims decision to the local level.

that water did not go over the fence. Some of the Schulte furniture was in the Von Antz yard in a place where water did not go."

The ruling also pointed out that roadway showed the Schulte house was well constructed and built on concrete blocks; that gravel had been unloaded in their yard the afternoon before the hurricane and the gravel remained there after the storm; that between 11 and 11:30 p.m. that night "a noise was heard, variously described by the several witnesses as "like a freight train or a water spout or a roaring noise or a terrible howl or sort of like a train rolling in. This noise was different from that which had been theretofore accompanying the blowing of the wind and lasted, by various estimates, from 15 to 20 seconds to a full minute. Pine needles were driven into the wall of the house near that of the Schultes. The house next door lost its porch which was never found. The home of occupants was completely destroyed, its roof as well as the roof of a house near by was found some distance north, near the Von Antz home. Appellants claimed that the debris, including the roof and other items of the Schulte home found up Terrace Road near the Von Antz home had floated there by water. There was evidence that the water on Terrace Road was only to the Von Antz driveway which was level with Arlington Street, the first street north of the Schulte home."

Attorneys for the Schultes were Gerald Gex, Joseph H. Benvenuti, Dan Shell and Walter J. Gex, III.

Trio chosen for '67 Boys' State

Boys' State delegates from Bay High and Hancock North Central High Schools were announced this week by Fred Fayard, chairman of the project for the sponsoring American Legion.

John Edward Pahlman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.S. Pahlman of Bay St. Louis, will represent Bay High. Gary Lawrence Ladner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Ladner of Perkinston, is the Hancock North Central delegate. Selection of Bernd Clifton Chevrie to represent St. Stanislaus College was announced last week. All are juniors.

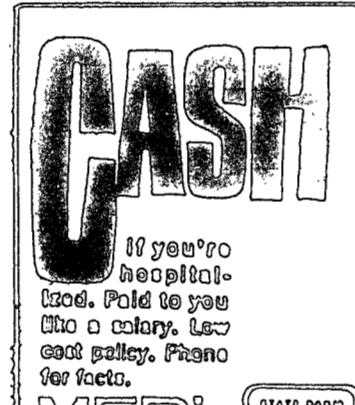

Boys' State is a program designed for boys of high moral character, good citizenship and potential leadership tendencies based on their outstanding accomplishments in the school and community. It is also a program for the development of leadership and citizenship.

In Boys' State the boys have their own city, county and state government. They elect their own city, county and state officials and learn the duties of the various public offices, their functions, limitations and powers.

They have their own legislature, introduce and argue bills, have city council, their own cities and conduct elections. They also have their own police force, court of law and administer justice. The boys are given an opportunity to learn for themselves that their government is just what they make it and each boy has a definite and integral part in the function of the program.

CHARLES A. RUSS, III

Announced for election to the office
Board of Supervisors Nov. 7

This is to announce my candidacy for election to the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, subject to the laws of the state of Mississippi.

I was born in the Napoleon community of Hancock County, to Ward, Otto W. Russ of Long Beach and the late Carl Russ, Jr., former Hancock County Supervisor from 1953 to the time of his death in August 1963.

I am 37 years of age, married to the former Nancy L. Baldwin, of Mandeville. We have two children, Charles, 11, and Mary, 9. I am a member of the First Baptist Church.

I attended the old Logtown school and graduated from Hancock High School, Ponchatoula Junior College, received a degree from Mississippi State University in 1958, and did graduate work at the University of Southern Mississippi.

I am a veteran of the U.S. Army having served in an overseas tour of duty from 1954-56. During this active service, I was assigned to a Signal Battalion for seven years of active reserve duty.

I was employed as a civilian instructor in the Air Control and Warning School at Keesler AFB from 1958 to 1960. I received this position to become sole owner of the Russ Lumber Company, located in Ponchatoula, which was formerly owned and operated by my father, the late Carl Russ, Jr.

I have actively worked for many community and county-wide projects. I am now a member of the Board of Directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Hancock County United Way.

I feel I am best qualified to serve the people of Hancock County by my ability, education, and active participation in community and county-wide affairs and my desire to have the most patriotic and best service for its people.

I will make a sincere effort to meet and talk with you. I earnestly solicit your vote and influence, and I am a candidate, an independent candidate, honest, and courteous government.

Sincerely, CHARLES A. RUSS Candidate for Beat 1, Supervisor Hancock County (P.A.C.)

Redistricting, a partial summary

One man, one vote has been the law under the U.S. Constitution since the case of Baker vs. Carr and in a weakened version, Mississippi law under its constitution. State courts, however, have not enforced Mississippi law on this point and only since Baker vs. Carr have federal courts made it their business. This is the background to the U.S. special district court's order last week accepting one of two proposals by Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

As it now stands all five beats in Hancock County will have approximately the same population instead of a fifteen or more to one disparity. Thus the voters in the populous Bay-Waveland area, who pay three-fourth of the taxes, will have more say-so in county affairs. To the same extent rural area citizens lose their weighted vote.

In this connection, one paramount point should be stressed. The new division of voting strength does not in any way automatically mean an improved board of supervisors. That is up to the voters' appraisal of whom they want to represent them. In view of their victory, old Beat 5 voters in particular should carefully consider their vote this August.

For ourselves we are not enthusiastically happy with the new beat lines. However, this editor, a ringleader in the suit, had to admit that the supervisors' proposal fulfilled the legal requirement.

Plaintiffs in Martinolich et al. vs. Dean et al. had drawn up another proposal, even more equal, they thought much better, but, without defendant supervisors' acquiescence, there was no way to bring it to the court's attention. It did, however, avoid the "forked-lightning" aspect of the adopted plan, only affected two of the old precincts, and made the beats more homogeneous and compact. It had one fatal flaw to the supervisors—two incumbents were placed in the same beat.

In this connection, we can only hope the supervisors serving after the 1970 census will qualitatively improve on the set-up.

Now that redistricting is completed so far as the supervisors are concerned, some mechanical problems arise. First, the supervisors must delineate new precinct boundaries where their redistricting plan splits present boundaries. Of course, they could make each district a precinct, as Judge Harold Cox pointed out, but this is hardly the best solution. Then, after the supervisors have performed this chore, the election commission must revise its voter lists in conformity with the new precincts.

While now a lot of decisions must be made in a short time, the supervisors have only themselves to blame. As late as last October they had a clear-cut duty to perform, but because of practical politics" they refused to measure up. This same "cause celebre" is responsible for the "forked lightning" result.

Of course, Hancock County's supervisors are well ahead of their colleagues in Harrison and Jackson Counties.

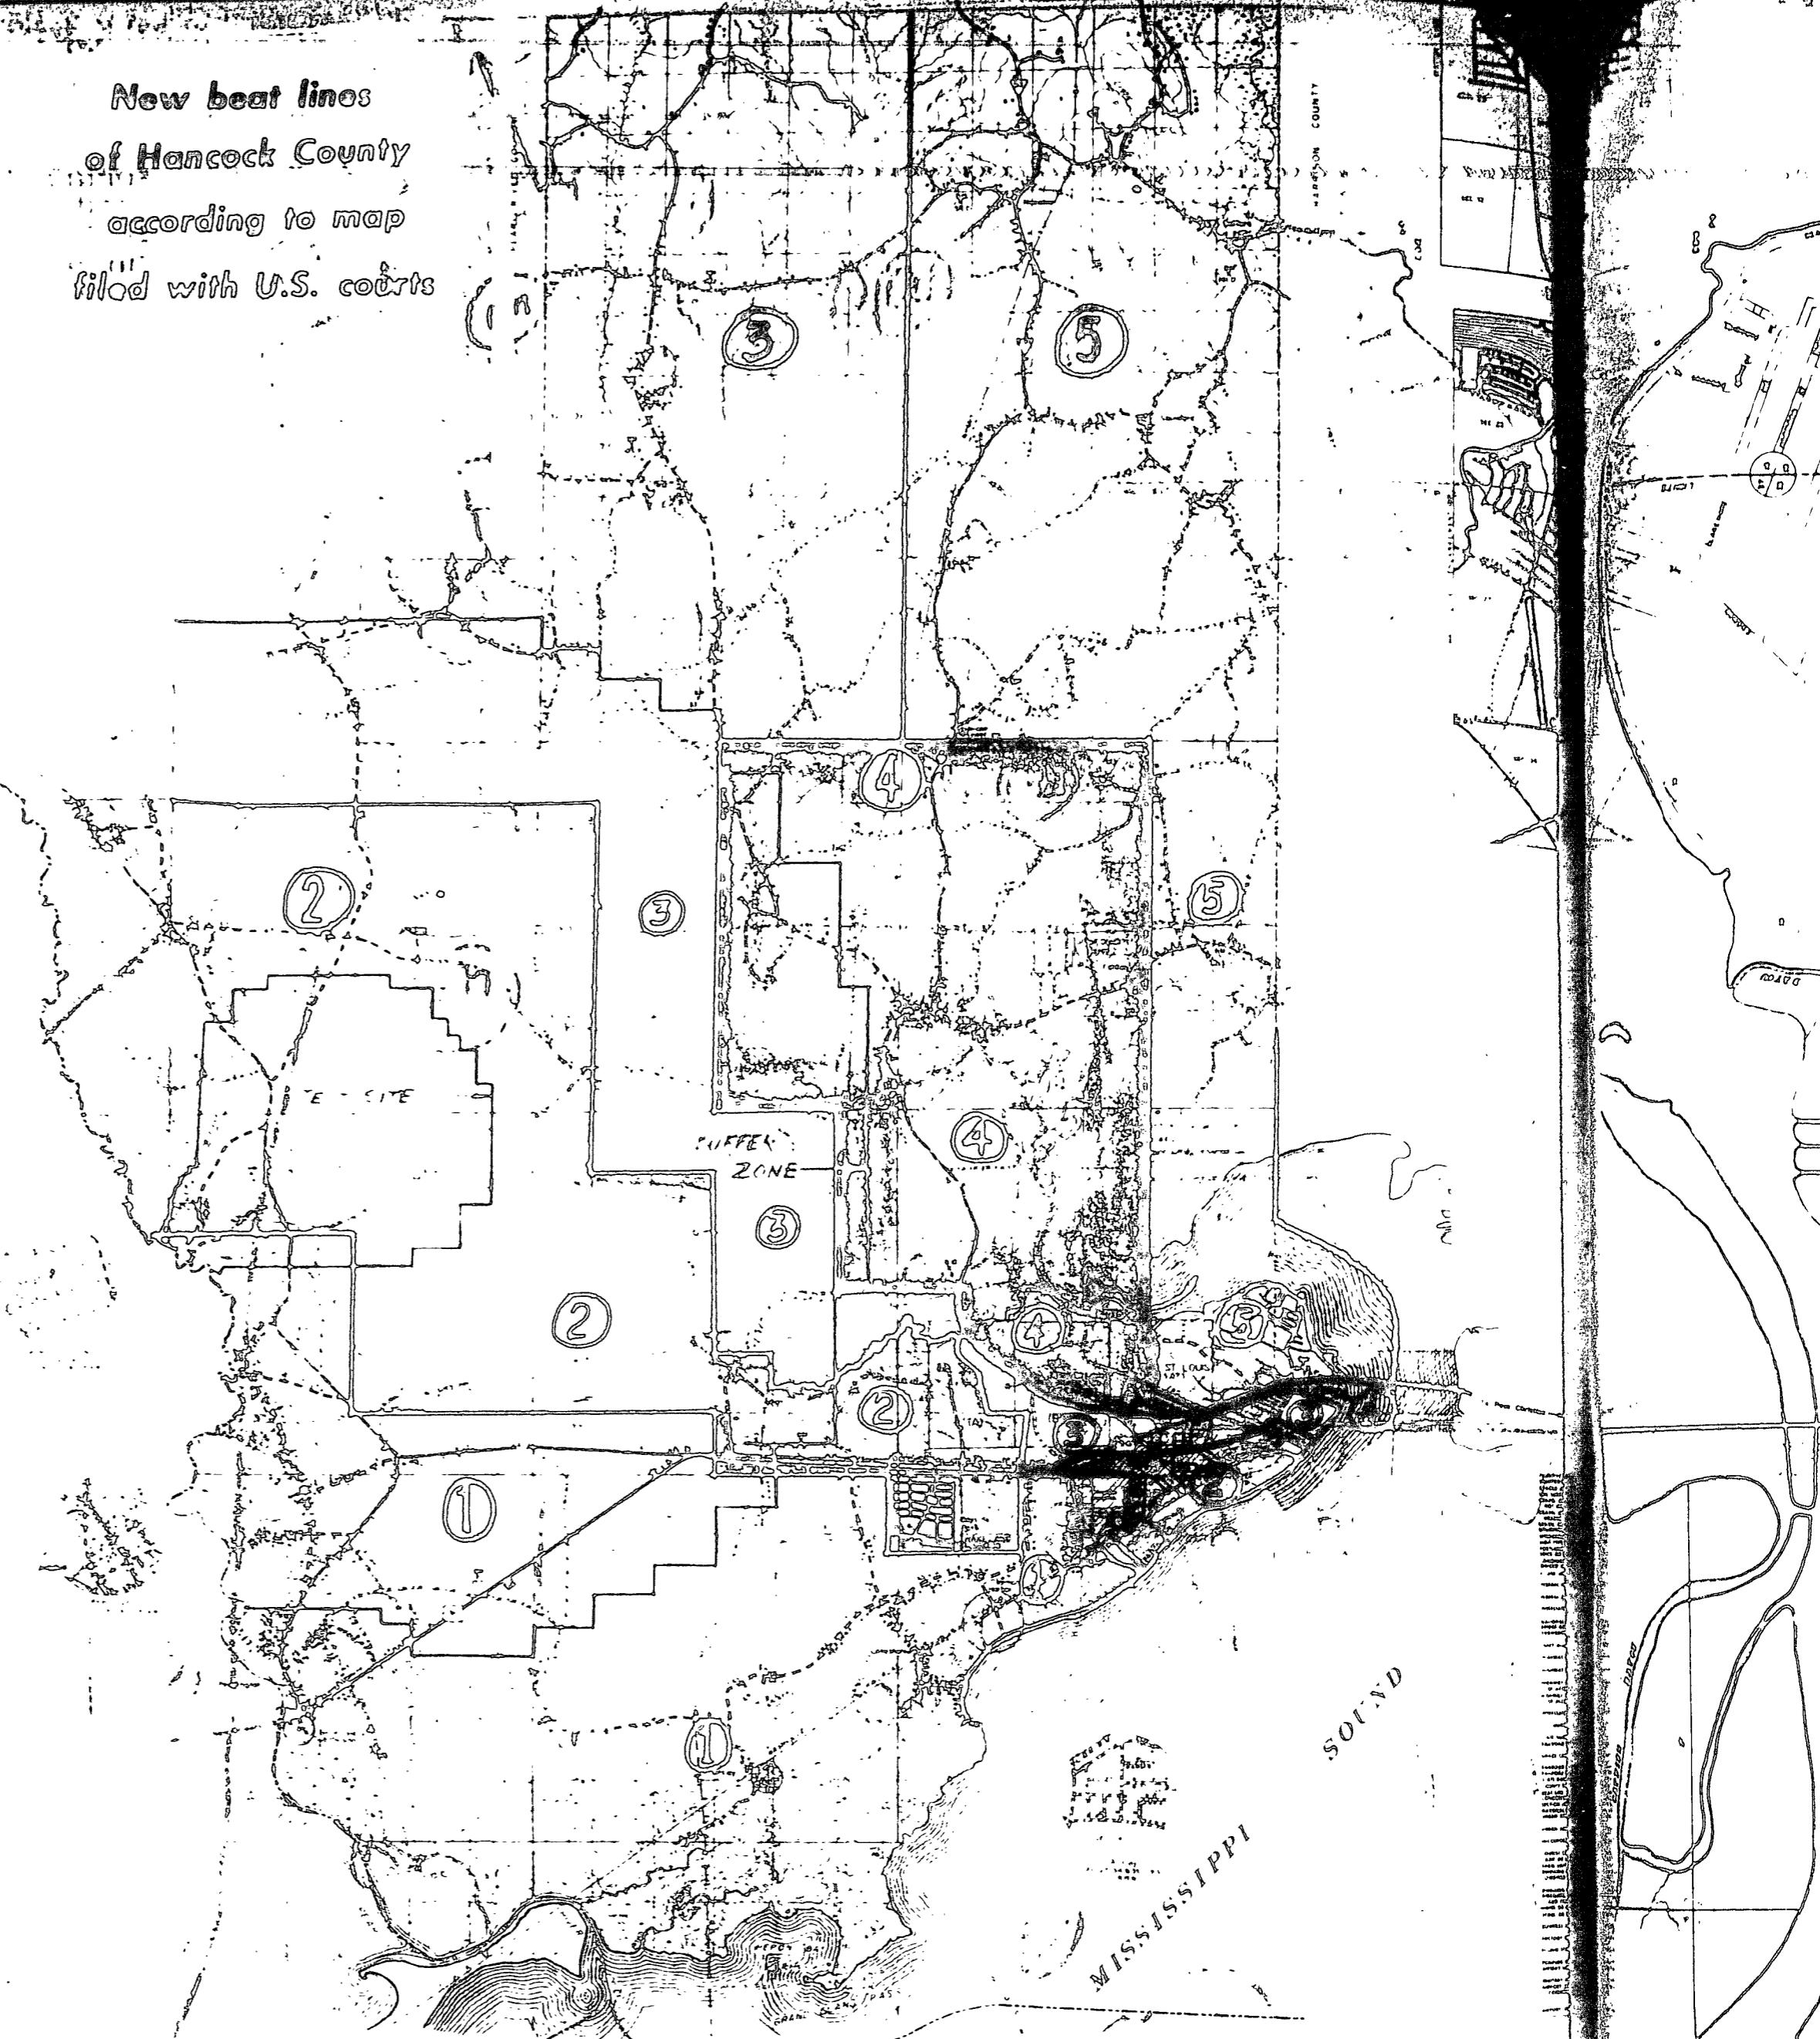

Along with the governing body of Stone County, and probably others, those supervisors, with no plan made as of Monday, must show cause concerning redistricting to essentially the same district court. (Judge Dan M. Russell, Jr., will join Judges J.P. Coleman and Harold Cox in these cases whereas Judge Claude Clayton was the third member in the Hancock County case.)

The redistricting case also points up the need for Waveland to redefine its wards. They were badly disproportionate before the recent annexation. However, unless some voter takes issue, it is probable the present Third Ward will stand up for the special election for a successor to the late Tony Bourgeois.

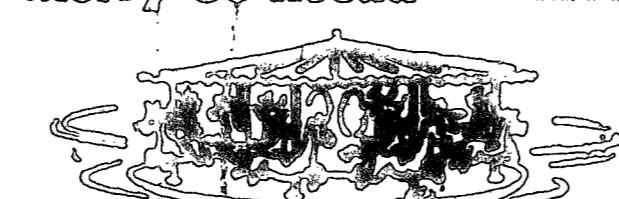

In case it missed your attention, the redistricting casts, if that's a proper term, the county one justice of the peace. Currently beats one, two, three and four have one JP each while, because of its population, beat five has two for a total of six. With the new beat starting in January next year, it will have one JP, a total of five, but none will be too far from the rate now.

As a conclusion we would like to emphasize two points. The more important is that redistricting does not mean, of itself, an improved board of supervisors. Our present probably is above average. Generally, for the disgruntled, whether supervisor or no, the current situation can be laid right in the lap of four supervisors, all except Mr. R.C. Hubbard.

Manny's Round

By Brow Poorman

WASHINGTON — The point-scoring battles between Soviet and American bicyclists in the fall of 1966 recently were merely the latest chapter in an old story.

Whether from international press relations games of "chicken" with one another in the past, U.S. and Soviet fliers would zoom toward one another in a collision course until one "chicken" turned out of the way.

The Soviets have always been sensitive about American naval movements in the Sea of Japan—over Soviet territorial in the Ryukyu Islands and Siberia. So, as occasion, Russian destroyers have chased toward American ships which were operating in their waters.

Usually the Americans would rung out of the way. This time both sides were caused because the American command held no course.

Manny's switch is for the best

We thought we had an easy, if brief, editorialite to write this week. It was to express our disappointment that Supervisor R.G. (Manny) Hubbard had decided his health was such he did not wish to run for reelection.

With all the good things we had to say about him, we still try, as they can't be written against him, to be kind. Between reducing his beat to less than one-third its size, population wise, and the urging of constituents Mr. Hubbard has changed his mind. He is going to run for reelection. Good luck, "Manny". The board of supervisors needs your experience.

On one previous occasion, however, a small American spy plane with classified gear, did not get out of the way in time and was shot down by a Soviet destroyer.

Russia and U.S. politics

The increase in Soviet military aid to North Vietnam which we reported on last week—including surface-to-surface missiles—may be an effort by Russia to prolong the war at least through 1968, according to Ambassador Lvovskiy Thompson in Moscow.

He has called the State Department to believe Soviet leaders are convinced that the Korean War caused the democratic defeat in 1953 and that North Korea got better peace terms out of President Eisenhower than would have been possible if the Democratic bigwigs had been in power.

Thus it may be, Thompson suggests, that the Soviet hope of victory will repeat. By lengthening the war through the 1968 Presidential campaign, the Russians may be hoping that President Johnson will be defeated and his successor would be a peace candidate more favorable to the communists.

Lodge vs. McNamara

Ambassador Harry, Robert Lodge, who recently got other years as ambassador to Sweden has told friends that one reason for his resignation was a policy dispute with Secretary of Defense McNamara.

Lodge proposed options reducing the authority of American diplomats in Vietnam, particularly passing the population problem under military command at the time the United States was calling upon the South Vietnamese government to turn over authority to civilian.

The battle between Lodge and McNamara over this issue apparently became so heated the Lodge refused to take his plane back during the Secretary's October visit to Vietnam.

Government waste

When President Johnson took office, one of his first problems was to declare a "war on waste" which he initiated by turning off the lights in the White House. But with his "war on poverty" plus the inflationary way to save money appears to have been forgotten.

With all the present demands on the government, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, for example, has been unable to find the time to review its own operations.

It is suggested psychiatrists to keep tabs on the

Comments

With the Post Office Department saying that it cost the mail and saving for higher postage rates, a government of 57 million on their regular letter mail service in for less than a full day's work.

A Deaver passenger spent 21 minutes at one house, 19 minutes in a dragnet, and 59 minutes at a dry cleaner. Another took a carrier twice a full hour and 51 minutes to his home.

A Deaver mailman regularly completed his route in 2 hours and 25 minutes, then used the remainder of his day caring for personal business.

On this basis, government authorities calculated that the cost of all $2,000 of the nation's city mail route the taxpayers millions.

Lobbyists and LBJ

The bureau of Washington telephone president is to call influential lobbyists on "government work" to discuss their role and fall in line with the President.

When President Johnson signed into the White House, campaign manager Bob McNair became head of the White House. He was on public relations with the President, but he eventually became the Director of the Office of the White House preparing his 1968 State of the Union address to the Senate of Miller's claims and take them on a tour of the House grounds.

And the $2 million they sought for a new federal building in downtown Dallas was appropriated shortly before the election.

Howard Burns, a retired Air Force colonel who was a security adviser to Johnson when he was Vice President, who has gone all the way with LBJ. Shortly after Johnson became President, Burns took a job as a security adviser to the White House, to help him prepare his 1968 State of the Union address to the Senate of Miller's claims and take them on a tour of the House grounds.

However, this group can report that the political influence of the Air Force largely disappeared when Burns left the White House. Burns, who was Vice President, was appointed to the White House, to help him prepare his 1968 State of the Union address to the Senate of Miller's claims and take them on a tour of the House grounds.

All he really wanted to do, he said, was to bring the Senate to pass his Constitutional Amendment.

The one-man one-vote rule for state legislature.

Now the first Constitutional Convention to do this, the Constitutional Convention of 1787, has defined the original Constitution of 1787.

Two states to call the convention. And Burns was worried that his convention may actually succeed. He was worried over what a Constitutional Convention might do.

Being more or less familiar with Hancock County politics, we should have known better than to comment upon the unusual and quiet atmosphere which seemed to pervade the '67 campaign. It only took a few stern words from a federal judge to turn the whole place topsy turvy and Saturday morning board candidates racing for reappointment were to discover just who they would have to outdo, and where! As the whole thing was originally the same, Red Clinton's 'baby', so to speak, will have nothing come up to him, but can't resist noting that at least each supervisor can fish, swim or take a boat ride from their own tiny little bit of seawall which appears to be backed up as if a hungry child had cut up a nice fat pig. We can only hope that whatever the victorious Board Supervisor happens to be in a strong swimmer, for he'll have to top the Jordan River to get his office. Anyway, 'tis going to make for all kinds of interesting spectacles and will undoubtedly flush out a whole covey of new hyenas. This year's ballot should break right out of a record high-water mark!

Graduation celebrations

The big graduation weekend was inspiration for lots of parties, and the whole seemed to be just as much celebrating as their offspring. Some of the larger affairs were given by Mrs. and John Richardson, father of daughter Jeanette, and everyone knows that when the Richardsons have a party, it's well worth while; Clara and George Sowders held open house at their Miller Street home Saturday afternoon in honor of their young daughter, Valerie, and Vickie and Andy Becker received one of the Legion hams for Mary Ann's large gathering.

Johnnie Richardson's grandmother, Mrs. W. Wells, and wife, Linda Wells, came over from New Orleans to see her in her big day, and, of course, attend the party.

We forgot to mention that everyone in any way concerned with the recent highly successful Cancer Fund drive is to be thanked, and that a special note of gratitude goes to Jimmy and Frank Trepagnier who offered two of the March-A-thon for the benefit, and to Merchants Bank for donation of tickets.

The Richard Matthews, Joe Richardson and Alice Clark were among the many spotted dining at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club last Friday night.

Legal secretaries entertain

Local legal secretaries Mary Catherine (Mrs. Leo) Moran, Barbara (Mrs. A.E.) White, Sig (Mrs. Tommy) Mallard and Ursula Favre are to be congratulated upon the wonderful job they did in arranging the state convention at the Broadwater Beach Hotel on May 19-21. Sig and Barbara were co-chairmen of the Friday night open houses; Mary Catherine supervised the Saturday morning breakfast and Ursula was in charge of advertising and the elaborate program. Their will was appreciated, however, as they walked away with the outstanding chapter award. Among dignitaries present were Mrs. Mary Holmes of Manoa, N.Y., president of the national Legal Secretaries Assn.; immediate past president, Mrs. Kirby McRae; Pat and Sam Favre, Sam being adviser to the local group; Lawyer and Walter James Phillips, Judge Frank Alexander and the Hon. Rue Bryant, Lt. Gen. Lang, Bruce Morris, George Morris and Abbie Thompson, Jr. The mayor of Biloxi, Donald Gates was speaker at the breakfast and the one and only Bayou Hallerman emceed the fashion show at the Saturday luncheon.

Animal notes

A warning to dog owners... the June 1, deadline for picking up all dogs which are not chained, leashed or inside of fenced yards, is drawing ever nearer, and the Waveland Fethers mean business this time. The large animal pound return competition, 2nd place dramatic traps are tokens, and soon, it promises to be filled the very first day. Mary Ann and Dick Christensen and the seven little Christensens were weekend guests of her mother, Mabel Green and aunt, Margaret Ord. The purpose of the visit being Jeanna's graduation from St. Joseph Academy.

Bid convention

Just about our favorite local group, Barracks 2537, Veterans of World War I, has an ambitious project planned when delegates Milton Durell, Joe Sheahan and Louis Moreau journey to Jackson for the state convention on June 24. They are going to invite the state convention to come to Waveland in 1968, and having these perturbative gentlemen, we're already preparing to welcome the delegation when it arrives!

John Jacob, who has been as very ill, is at least beginning to improve. He's recovered sufficiently to eat his doctor when he'll be allowed to return to work.

"The only dealer we know are the ones we don't know about" - They proved to us they meant it. With our current being put back down we know that the city need all the tax dollars they can get. This is our small way of helping, by buying locally.
